LEGACY LIVES HERE

Mary Anne Cooper 1914–2021

The Spirit of Port Moody

Long-Serving Community Leader and Recipient of Port Moody's Highest Honour, The Freedom of the City Award.

Dr. Cooper's legacy is rooted in our community. As the driving force behind the conservation of the loco Townsite, one of the few surviving early company towns in the Lower Mainland, she ensured this unique heritage conservation area, recognized in the City's Official Community Plan, remains protected.

A lifelong community and heritage activist, Dr. Cooper was passionate about the environment. She brought life to loco Ghost Town Days, an annual event celebrating the townsite's history and emphasizing the importance of heritage conservation in Port Moody. For seven years, she served on the City's Heritage Commission and the Port Moody Heritage Society board. Beyond her activism, Dr. Cooper set a national swim record at the remarkable age of 101. Her dedication to preserving our shared heritage makes her more than just a name—she is the spirit that roots us in the past and guides us into the future.

COMMITTED TO COMMUNITY

A Boutique Community of 1, 2, & 3 Bedroom Air-Conditioned Homes With Curated Retail and Services.

Nestled in this unique enclave of Port Moody where the aroma of gentle coffee shops, the charm of enchanting bakeries, and the colours of whimsical flower shops paint the neighbourhood, Mary Anne's Place emerges not just as a residence but as a home with a story.

It doesn't merely reside within this community; it weaves a narrative that elevates the essence of living.

Mary

Heritage Advocate & Community Leader

" 'Where there is a will, there is a way' has always been a rule with me. I believe that we cannot survive without this social objective. I think we all have a responsibility to give back as well as to receive services throughout life. It is a kind of stewardship to life itself. "

Meet Your Neighbours

Sarah

Resident, Mother, Storyteller

"My plays are an exploration of loss and how to move forward. I feel like as humans, we're always having to do that. As humans there's always something we're going to have to let go of."

Cezar

Artist, Owner of Grit Studio, Energizing Soul

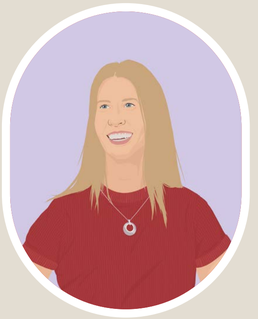

"I'm doing something I'm really passionate about. My struggle as an artist is also their struggle. Artists need a space to create—without the proper nurturing, space, and people supporting you, it's hard."

Helen

"To feel like you've made a difference to somebody in what they ended up doing, feels pretty good."

Claire

Taryn

Butcher, Owner of The Little Butcher

"I feel incredibly accepted as a female butcher... it's still unusual, probably for every 100 male butchers is one female butcher. But I think it's becoming more accepted."

Valentina

"My interest and desire and wanting to go into the legal profession comes from the great sense of gratitude that I feel for my grandparents and what they had to go through to build a better life for themselves and their families."

Robert

Resident, Historical Advocate

"As you see a community evolve, you have to capture and protect that information knowing that the physical elements are probably going to disappear. But you have to keep some kind of record of the information and recall some of the life during that era."

Deanna

Mother, Director of PoMo Arts, Clayist

"The experience and learnings I have had about reconciliation through participating and attending these events have changed me. A community that participates in this life-long journey is one that I want to be a part of and grow my family with."

Rainer

Long Term Resident, Owner of the former Gallery Bistro

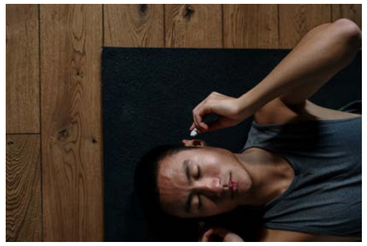

"Pretty soon we're going to have what we're longing for, which is this village feel around us. A place to get milk and bread."

Placemaker COMMUNITIES

True to its namesake, Placemaker is a property development company that strives to not just design and build, but impact.

When Hesam Deihimi, Managing Principal and his longtime friend and industry expert, Iman Rahmim, observed the property development landscape, they saw a critical gap: projects often failed to foster the well-being of the communities they were built for. Driven by a deep passion for change, they combined their decades of expertise in development and to forge a new path—one where the goal for every project is to enhance the well-being of the community.

Placemaker embodies a multi-faceted approach to the selection, planning, design, and construction of residential and mixed-use spaces. Every project is a deliberate effort to enhance community well-being, ensuring that health, happiness, and a sense of belonging are at the core of every design decision. We don't just build spaces; we craft environments that support, excite, and inspire—naturally fitting into the fabric of the communities they serve.
